SIX ARMED MEN TIE AND ROB S. E LUSHA.

They Also Talked About Robbing th Santa Fe Train But They Dida's Do It.

The wild cries of S. E. Lusha attracted the attention of the few men who live near the packing house about 8 o'clock last night. The cries emenated from the grove on the corner of Lawrence avenue and Twenty-First street. Mike Dempey was the first to arive in the grove and he found Lusha tied with a halter rope to a tree with a handkerchief tied over his mouth. He rapidly untied Lusha who told the following strange story to an EAGLE re-

"I was going home about 8 o'clock and I stopped in the shade of some trees for a few minutes near Thirtteenth street. It was but a few seconds when five men heavily armed rode up on horse back and one of them was leading a horse without a rider. They halted near where I stood and very soon the sixth man came up and mounting his borse said "boys its all right, the train is due at 9:15 and will be in on time." Someone of the members asked how it could be stopped and another replied "it must stop at the crossing and we'll get her there. One man then asked whether it wouldn't be better to throw a switch and again the same man replied that that wasn't necessary as he was sure the stopped at the train They then rode on north. When they had gone I went out in the middle of the road and looked after them. My first impulse was to run down town and report the matter at the Santa Fe station, but on second thought I deemed it more wise to follow them, watch their movements and report the matter to the police at the stock yards. I walked north a short distance and then crossed over to the railroad track, where I saw two or three more men loitering. These, also, left when I appeared, and walked north, meeting the men on horseback in the grove west of the packing house. I heard them say that there were no 'cops' sight, and that everything was all right. They then noticed me and one of the men said, "that --- is on to us and he will give us away." Two men then jumped from their horses, seized me and after tielng me to a tree in the grove, robbed me of $10 and told me that if I attempted to make a noise they would of the Missouri Pacific was notified of what had happened and he telephoned to the Union depot. The agent in turn telephoned to the police headquarter, and the hoodlyng wagon and or four policemen went to the stock yards and arrested about a dozen burns, not knowing anything about the conspiracy to rob the Santa Fe, for from some cause they did not quite catch on to the full import of the telephone message. When the depot agent was notified of the matter by the watchman the first section of the train was then standing on the track ready to pull out, but as there was no express car on this train it was not expected that it would be held up. Conductor Loosley, however, was notified and he prepared his shooting irons for any emergency that might arise. The first section passed the crossing all right and so did the second section, which was without an express car, too. The third section which contained the money and valuables was an hour late, but when it did arrive Chief of Police Cone and Chief Clerk Meyers of the Stata-Fe boarded the blidd bagage well armed that no details of the expected butchery might be lost to the public. Five or six policemen were stationed where they would do the most good. The conductor, express messenger and baggageman were wise warned, and if the robbers showed up there might be six funerals to day. The crossing was reached in a few minutes, but as nobody put in an appearance, the engine tooted twice and the train went excitement at the stock deal yards add the people there believed that a robbery was contemplated. It is very hard to believe than any men would be so bold to rob a train within the city limits, but there is no question but what Lusha was tied and robbed by six well spot, with but a couple of unoccupied shantles in the neighborhood and a successful robbery could be committed there without much trouble, for the indications are that the engineer and fireman would not be expecting anything of the kind and could have been made to yield to the robbers easily. The flact that the two first trains had no express cars on and the third train being au hour late, might have something to do in foiling the plot, besides the appearance of the police in the vicinity with the hooflum wagon and the arrest of about a dozen 'bums" might have frightened them way. Since the opening of the Cherokee strip inducements are offered to train rob. bers to tackle the Santa Fe, particularly when it is known that a good deal of money is shipped every night from the Perry land office. It is not improbable that a scheme was on foot the previous night to hold up and rob Herbert Fenu the ticket clerk at the union depot. About 9 o'clock three suspicious his watched ittle newsboy was also loafing around, and he overheard one of the men say, "He has a good deal of money there," pointing wonder how much is in the safe ?" The whisperings that they were suspicious are invited to attend, customers, and he quietly slipped in and nformed Mr. Fenn of his fears, Mr. Penu had suspicious, too, and was ready for them in case of an attack, but the trains came in in such order that he had people around the depot in large numbers until the last train had gone, and then he promptly locked the office up and went home. #### THE ALLOTMENTS.

Without entering into a lengthy discussion of the law and the constitution regarding the Cherokce allotments-will say for the benefit of any who may be interested: First, that these laws or acts of congress were enacted especially for this especial case. Second, they were framed by land and corporation attorneys, whose legal standing cannot be questioned; and these same attorneys have substantially guarded the proceedings from the time the bill passed into the hands of the congressional committee until the acts were passed, and they have been just as vigilant and as careful to see that the allottees complied with the laws as they were to get the laws passed by congress.

It is not at all likely that corporation attorneys, well versed in constitutional law, would frame a bill which would not stand the test, where so much money is involved. If you will read the proclama tion carefully you will observe that in addition to the 5,6000 acres specially men-tioned, it says, "and other lands," which covers one question raised. The other one is that the allottee cannot give a deed for twenty-five years. The law says that the government shall give the allottee a deed in fee simple." A deed in fee simple would not be a deed if it had restrictions taken, and in all human probability when a town company located on one of these allotments sees fit to give a deed in fee simple to a lot that it will stand the test, THE DAKOTA, WICHITA AND GULF RAIL

Thursday evening Mr. Edward Roemer, chief engineer of the above named rail-road, received a dispatch from New York requesting his immediate presence in that city. Thursday he left, and he said the message was of the greatest importance to the road, to this city, and to himself. He will be absent thirty days, and upon his return work would be begun immediately. Mr. Roemer is a highly educated gentleman, of fine attainments as an engineer. ranking among the ablest and best in the country, and since his advent in this city has carned the confidence and respect of the business men. The proposition with which he is connected has the endorsement and approval of the monled men and capitaliets of the city and county as well as the entire community.

A BEAUTIFUL SPECTRE.

The people of College Hill were treated to a most beautiful natural phenomena after the shower on Thursday afternoon. The reflected light of the evening suc upon the rolling clouds above, the rain which seemed to play bide-and-seek with shifting shadows, the golden sheen and silver lining of far off western clouds and a most brilliant rainbow, forming the complete arch, in the eastern borizon, with another less brilliant, though distinct above it, formed a picture, such as may be wrought only by an omnipotent hand and treasured in finite memory.
